------Nihil eſt quod credere de ſe
Non poſſit------ JUV.

There's nought but of himſelf he can believe.

THE apparent Inſufficiency of every Individual to his own Happineſs or Safety, compels us to ſeek from one another Aſſiſtance and Support; and not only the Neceſſity of joint Efforts for the Execution of any great or extenſive Deſign, but the Variety of Powers diſſeminated in the Species, and the Proportion between the Defects and Excellencies of different Perſons, demands the Interchange of Help, and Communication of Enjoyments, and, by frequent Reciprocations of Beneficence, unites Mankind in Society and Friendſhip.

If it can be imagined, that there ever was a Time when the Inhabitants of any Country were in a State of Equality, it is reaſonable to believe, that every Man was then loved in Proportion as he could contribute, by his Strength or his Skill, to the Supply of natural Wants; that there was little Room for peeviſh Diſlike, or capricious Favour; that the Affection then admitted into the Heart, was rather Eſteem than Tenderneſs; and that Kindneſs was only purchaſed by Benefits. But when, by Force or Policy, by Wiſdom or by Fortune, Diſtinction and Superiority were introduced and eſtabliſhed, and many were condemned to labour for the Support of a Few, they whoſe Poſſeſſions ſwelled above their Wants, naturally laid out their Superfluities upon Pleaſure; and they who could no longer be employed in eſſential Affairs, nor purchaſe Friendſhip by neceſſary Offices, endeavoured to promote their Intereſt by new Gratifications, and to create Wants which they might be courted to ſupply.

The Deſires of Mankind are ſo much more numerous than their Enjoyments, and the Capacity of real or imaginary Poſſeſſion ſo much too large to be filled up, that no Power of beſtowing can ſatisfy Expectation; and every diſtant Appearance of Advantage muſt cauſe Struggles and Competitions. That which can be obtained by one, will be deſired by Multitudes, while there are Multitudes unſatisfied with their Allotment: And he who cannot hope to ſucceed by real Services, and either finds no Room for the Exertion of higher Qualities, or perceives himſelf excelled by his Rivals, will have Recourſe to other Expedients, endeavour to become agreeable where he cannot be important, and learn, by Degrees, to conſider the Art of pleaſing among the moſt uſeful Studies and valuable Attainments.

This Art, like others, is cultivated in Proportion to its Uſe, and will always flouriſh moſt where it is moſt rewarded. For this Reaſon we find it practiſed with great Aſſiduity under abſolute Governments, where Honours and Riches are in the Hands of one Man, from whom all therefore endeavour to propitiate; and who ſoon grow ſo much accuſtomed to Compliance and Officiouſneſs, as not eaſily to find, in the moſt delicate Addreſs, that Novelty which is neceſſary to procure Attention.

It is diſcovered by a very few Experiments, that no Man is much pleaſed with another, who does not increaſe, in ſome Reſpect, his Opinion of himſelf. And therefore he that endeavours rather to force himſelf forward to Proſperity by the gentle Hand of Favour, than to clear his Way by Labour and Merit, muſt rather conſider how to flatter his Patron's Excellencies than his own; that whenever he approaches, he may fill the Imagination with pleaſing Dreams, and drive away Diſguſt and Wearineſs by a perpetual Succeſſion of delightful Images.

This may, indeed, ſometimes be effected by turning the Attention upon Advantages which are really poſſeſſed, and upon Proſpects which Reaſon ſpreads before Hope: For whoever can increaſe the Complacence of others, has generally, either from Nature or from Fortune, Gifts which he may review with Satisfaction, and of which he will ſeldom be diſpleaſed that he is recalled to the Contemplation.

But thoſe who have once degraded their Underſtanding to an Application only to the Paſſions, and who have learned to derive Hope from any other Sources than Induſtry and Virtue, ſeldom retain Dignity and Magnanimity ſufficient to ſecure them againſt the continual Recurrence of Temptation to Falſhood. He that is too deſirous to be loved, will ſoon learn to flatter; and when he has exhauſted all the Variations of honeſt Praiſe, and can delight no longer with the Civility of Truth, he will invent new Topicks of Panegyrick, and break out in Raptures at Virtues and Beauties conferred by himſelf.

The Drudgeries of Dependence would indeed be aggravated by Cruelty, if no Indulgence was allowed to Adulation. He that will obſtinately confine his Patron to hear only the Commendations which he deſerves, will ſoon be forced to give Way to others who underſtand him with more Compaſs of Muſick. The greateſt human Virtue bears no Proportion to human Vanity. We always think ourſelves better than we are, and are generally deſirous that others ſhould think us ſtill better than we think ourſelves. To confer a Benefit, but to pay a Tribute. We have always Pretenſions to Fame, which in our own Hearts we know to be diſputable, and which we are deſirous to ſtrengthen by a new Suffrage; we have Hopes which we ſuſpect to be fallacious, and therefore eagerly ſnatch at every Confirmation.

It may, indeed, be proper to make the firſt Approaches under the Maſk of Praiſe, as may be ratified by the Conſcience: But the Mind muſt be habituated to the Luſciouſneſs of Eulogy, becomes in a ſhort Time nice and faſtidious; and, like a vitiated Palate, is inceſſantly calling for higher Gratifications.

It is ſcarcely credible, how far Diſcernment may be dazzled by the Miſt of Pride, and Underſtanding infatuated by the Intoxicating Draught of Flattery; or how low the Genius may deſcend by ſucceſſive Gradations of Servility, and how ſwiftly it may fall down the Precipice of Falſhood. No Man can indeed obſerve without Indignation, on what Names, both of ancient and modern Times, the utmoſt Exuberance of Praiſe has been laviſhed, and by what Beaſts it has been beſtowed. It has never yet been found, that the Tyrant, the Plunderer, the Oppreſſor, the moſt hateful of the Unfaithful, the moſt profligate of the Profligate, have wanted the Celebrations which they were willing to purchaſe; or that Wickedneſs and Folly have not found correſpondent Flatterers through all their Subordinations, except when they have been aſſociated with Avarice or Poverty, and have wanted either Inclination or Ability to hire a Panegyriſt.

As there is no Character ſo deformed as to fright away from it the Proſtitutes of Praiſe, there is no Degree of encomiaſtic Veneration which Pride has refuſed. The Emperors of Rome ſuffered themſelves to be worſhipped in their Lives with Temples and Altars; and, in an Age more enlightened, the Terms peculiar to the Praiſe and Worſhip of the Supreme Being, have been applied to Wretches whom it was the Reproach of Humanity to number among Men, and whom nothing but Riches or Power hindered thoſe that read or wrote their Deification, from hunting into the Toils of Juſtice, as Diſturbers of the Peace of Nature.

There are indeed many among the poetical Flatterers, who muſt be reſigned to Infamy without Vindication, and whom we muſt confeſs to have deſerted the Cauſe of Virtue for Pay; to have committed, againſt full Conviction, the Crime of obliterating the Diſtinctions between Good and Evil; and inſtead of oppoſing the Encroachments of Vice, to have incited her Progreſs, and celebrated her Conqueſts. But there is a lower Claſs of Sycophants, whoſe Underſtanding has not made them capable of equal Guilt. Every Man of high Rank is ſurrounded with Numbers, who have no other Rule of Thought or Action, than his Maxims and his Conduct; whom the Honour of being numbered among his Acquaintance, reconciles to all his Vices and all his Abſurdities; and who eaſily perſuade themſelves to eſteem him, by whoſe Regard they conſider themſelves as diſtinguiſhed and exalted.

It is dangerous for mean Minds to venture themſelves within the Sphere of Greatneſs. Stupidity is ſoon blinded by the Splendour of Wealth, and Cowardice is eaſily fettered in the Shackles of Dependence. To ſolicit Patronage, is, at leaſt in the Event, to ſet Virtue to Sale. None can be pleaſed without Praiſe, and few can be praiſed without Falſhood; few can be aſſiduous without Servility, and none can be ſervile without Corruption.

To the FOOL.

SIR,

WERE it lawful or decent to be ludicrous with the miſerable State of our Country, the Quack Remedies applied to her Diſeaſes would prove an inexhauſtable Fund for ſatyrical Mirth: But how diverting ſoever it may be, in Speculation, to ſee Men wilfully or ignorantly miſtaking the Cauſes of the Commonwealth's Diſtempers, and of Courſe miſtaking the Methods of Cure, we cannot give a Looſe to merry Reflections, becauſe the Effects of ſuch Miſtakes are ſo far from being ſpeculative, that they actually bear hard upon Thouſands, and create more Diſorders than they obviate; and therefore, inſtead of indulging a Smile, every ſerious Mind and humane Heart cannot but tremble at the Conſequences.

Phyſician cure thyſelf, is a Reflection that muſt not be levelled ſolely at the Gentlemen of the Faculty: It is applicable to all Profeſſions, all Orders of Men. Whoever would reform another, ſhould firſt mend his own Manners, otherwiſe his good Advice will be ſlighted; and if Force be uſed to make it go down, this makes the Matter Worſe; for in Caſes of Injuſtice or Immorality, the loweſt and moſt ignorant have Senſe and Knowledge enough to diſcern, that the higheſt and the moſt learned ought not to take greater Liberties than themſelves.

In vain may the Parſon deliver ſound Doctrine and pure Morality from the Pulpit, if his Actions give the Lie to his Sermons: The Generality of his Congregation forming their Judgments chiefly from Appearances, will be too apt to conclude he is only acting a Farce, as Players do for Bread, and hardly brought to believe and practiſe what they ſuſpect he himſelf is not inwardly perſwaded of.

In vain may Legiſlators enact Laws to keep the State in order, and make People ſober and honeſt, if they themſelves are not Patterns of Temperance and Probity. Precepts without Example make but faint Impreſſions even on the Well-inclined, and too frequently leave ſuch as are Ill-inclined worſe than they found them.

If we wanted to find out the Epidemical Diſtemper of the Age, our Inquiry ought not to have reſted at Gin. To do ſo, and make our Preſcriptions agreeable to ſuch careleſs Search, is like applying a Plaiſter or Ointment to the Hand or the Foot, when the Inteſtines are ulcerated, and the whole Body covered with Wounds, Bruiſes and putrefying Sores.

That the Body politic is out of Order, is obvious to all; but that it is ſick almoſt to Death, is perceived by only a Few. And what is the Cauſe of this Diſeaſe? From whence ſpring theſe great Diſorders in the common Wealth?---From Luxury: Here we may begin and end our Inquiry; it is all anſwered in one Word, which comprizes the immoderate Gin-drinker, Beer-guzzler, Wine-bibber, Punch-tippler, Tea-ſipper, &c. as alſo the Cormorant, that devours as much Meat as would ſerve the Turn of Half a Dozen temperate Men; and the Epicure, that cannot live without a French Cook: To which I may add the conſtant Reſorters to Plays, Balls, Opera's, Maſquerades, Concerts, Bear-Gardens, Horſe-Races, Cock-Matches, and thoſe that deal more with the Print-ſhops than with the Bookſellers.

Luxury may be briefly defined, a Man's living above what his Eſtate or Income will bear, or indulging himſelf in Eaſe or Diverſion beyond what is neceſſary to preſerve Health of Body and Mind; and this, upon a nice Scrutiny, will be found the epidemical Diſtemper of the Age. In this we ſee all Ranks and Conditions emulate one another: This Bane of civil Society, this Cankerworm of the State, has got the Dominion every where; it reigns deſpotically at Court, and in the Camp; lays waſte both Town and Country; and oh! that I could ſay it has got no Footing among the Miniſters of the Goſpel, thoſe Preachers of Mortification and Self-Denial.

The Effects of univerſal Luxury are ſo well underſtood, that it ſeems needleſs to dwell upon them: Nevertheleſs, for the Sake of ſome, who have been taught to view them in a more favourable Light than they are ſet by four Moraliſts and grave Politicians, we may briefly obſerve, that this Vice, or Complication of Vices, has deſtroy'd Empires much mightier than the Britiſh Monarchy. Whither it will lead this Nation, God only knows; but thus much we know from Hiſtory, that no People immerſed in Luxury could long preſerve their Liberties.

And indeed it cannot be otherwiſe in the Reaſon and Nature of Things: For, as with Individuals, Luxury waſtes the Eſtate, breeds Diſeaſes in the Body, and of Courſe greatly impairs the Vigour of the Mind; ſo it muſt alſo be in Societies. Without Temperance and Oeconomy, the brighteſt Genius can make no great Progreſs in Arts and Sciences, nor the greateſt Hero compaſs any mighty Deſigns that require much Time and Expence. Where Luxury reigns, there the People are always ſelfiſh, venal and effeminate: No generous Spirit is left, to encourage Projects for the publick Good; no Firmneſs to oppoſe Deſigns pernicious to the Commonwealth; no Virtue to ſtem the Torrent of Vice; no Steadineſs and Reſolution to make an effectual Stand for expiring Liberty.

Where Luxury prevails, there we muſt always expect to ſee Oppoſition faint, or ill-concerted, or made with ſiniſter Views: For want of Oeconomy every Cauſe is ſtarved, and Oppoſition terminates in ſome infamous Coalition.

Without Temperance and Oeconomy a Man can neither raiſe nor keep himſelf above Want, nor ſafely deſpiſe the Frowns of great wicked Men, nor turn a deaf Ear to their inſidious Blandiſhments. Without theſe Virtues every good Principle in him will be gradually eradicated, and ſucceeded by every ruinous Vice and diſorderly Paſſion; and then, if Poverty ſtares him in the Face, he lies open to the firſt Temptation.

The luxurious Man living only for himſelf, becomes incapable of doing any Good, has no Bowels of Compaſſion for others, no Feeling for the Miſeries of his Neighbour, nor the leaſt Senſe of any public Calamities. All his Views centering in dear Self, if he can but gratify his ſenſual Appetites, enjoy his favourite Diverſions, and find Supplies for all his Extravagancies, it is indifferent to him whether he gets it by fair or foul Means. His Body being diſtempered, and his Intellects clouded by a Courſe of Intemperance and Diſſipation, his Days paſs away without ever taking any Thought about a future State. Religion, that beſt Support of true Patrotiſm, is totally baniſh'd by Luxury: To enjoy this, he takes the Bribe, and ſells his Country; and, Eſau-like, parts with his ſpiritual Birth-Right too, for a Meſs of Pottage.

Whenever a Nation abounds with Fribbles and Lukewarm Patriots, Epicures and Infidels, Time-ſerving Divines and timorous Lawyers, with Shoals of M------l Penſioners, Puffers, Informers, and perjured Miſcreants, it is in the high Road to Deſtruction, is haſtening apace to ſome fatal Cataſtrophe; is ripe for being inſlaved by any domeſtick Foe rich enough to buy it, or any foreign Enemy powerful enough to invade it.

I am, Sir,

Yours, &c.

OLD STERLING.

BOSTON, October 21.

Extracts from the Votes of the Honourable Houſe of Repreſentatives. Martis 8 Die Octobris, A. D. 1751.

JAMES Minot, Eſq; brought down the Report of the Committee of both Houſes appointed the third Inſtant, relating to the Weſtern Tribes of Indians, &c. in the Words following, viz.

The Committee appointed to take under Conſideration that Paragraph of his Honour's Speech reſpecting the Weſtern Tribes of Indians, &c. together with the Report of the Committee reſpecting that Affair, report, as their Opinion;

That the Maintenance of the Indian Children in ſaid School, both as to Cloathing and Dieting, be at the Expence of the Government, except ſo far as is provided for by Mr. Hollis, or by the Corporation for propagating the Goſpel.

That there be two Engliſh Youths put into the Boys School in order to learn the Indian Tongue, that ſo they may be qualified for future Service to the Government among the Indians, to be boarded at the Expence of the Government.

That Mrs. Aſhley be retained as an Interpreter, who together with her Huſband, may alſo be employ'd in the neceſſary Services of the Family.

And that there be likewiſe an expert and induſtrious Man procured to manage the Huſbandry on the School Lands, and inſtruct the Youths therein, and that proper Utenſils therefore be provided.

That Proviſion be made for the Subſiſtence of the Mohawk Families, together with what they may be able to ſupply themſelves with by Hunting; until they ſhall be able to raiſe ſomething upon the Lands to ſubſiſt themſelves.

That a Letter be wrote to the Government of Connecticut, informing them of the Meaſures taken by this Government, for ſecuring the Six Nations to the Britiſh Intereſt, as well as for their Inſtruction, and that we hope and expect they will join in them, and contribute towards the Expence.

That this Court do agree to the Propoſal of Sir Peter Warren, of appropriating the Sum of Seven Hundred Pounds Sterling in his Hands for the Support and Education of the Mohawk Children, and that he be immediately adviſed thereof, and deſired to tranſmit the ſame; and that it be let out on Intereſt, and the Intereſt be applied to the Purpoſes aforeſaid.

That a Letter be wrote to Mr. Hollis of London (who has employ'd Capt. Kellogg to ſupport and educate a Number of Indian Children at his Expence) that he be informed of the Meaſures taken by this Government for the like Purpoſes, and deſir'd to appoint one or more Truſtees for the Management of his Charity, to act in Concert with ſuch Perſons as may be appointed by this Government for carrying on ſaid Deſign. And,

That a Committee be accordingly appointed by this Court to carry into Execution the foregoing Deſign; that they be impowered to receive ſuch Donations from Time to Time as may or ſhall be offered for the Encouragement and Support of ſaid Schools: That they have the Inſpection and Regulation of the ſame, and the Management of all the Prudentials thereof, ſubject to ſuch Directions and Inſtructions as they ſhall receive from this Court from Time to Time; ſaid Committee to be accountable, and to be rewarded for their Services.

And on Thurſday laſt the following Gentlemen were choſen a Committee for the Purpoſes aforeſaid, viz. Joſeph Pynchon and Joſeph Dwight, Eſquires, and Capt. John Aſhley.

By Cape. Corne arriv'd at New-York from London, we have the following Advices.

Conſtantinople, July 23. We have a moſt diſagreeable Scene before us this Year, the Plague has ſo conſiderably augmented, as to oblige the Inhabitants to be almoſt continually removing from one Village to another, or rather from one Seat of Infection to the other; for even the remoteſt Parts, which were always thought to be the moſt ſecure, have not been exempt. In the midſt of this Calamity, we have had four ſucceſſive Fires; the firſt on the ninth Inſtant, near the Moſque of Sultan Mehemet, which burnt for 21 Hours, with a violent North-eaſt Wind, by which nine Diſtricts of the Town have been conſum'd, each Diſtrict containing about 700 Houſes, among which were the Quarters of the Janiſſaries, conſiſting of 98 Ranges of Chambers, each uſually containing from 350 to 400 Men. The Janiſſaries then preſent, to the Number of about 20,000, were, in this Extremity, obliged to encamp on the great Place called the Eithmeidan; 200 of them have been ſince miſſing, and it is concluded were deſtroyed in attempting to extinguiſh the Flames. The other three Fires were leſs conſiderable, burning only four or five Hours each; by which, however, many Seraglio's of the great Men of this Government, have been reduced to Aſhes.

Hamburgh, Auguſt 27. Letters from Conſtantinople ſay, that the Plague rages ſo violently, as to carry off daily upwards of 1000 Perſons in that Capital.

Paris, September 3. Tho' the Conference at Fiorenzo has ſeem'd to terminate in the abſolute Accommodation of all Differences, and the Genoeſe retain only the five Maritime Places; yet, as the Corſicans are to maintain the Garriſons, the annual Charge of which will be no leſs than Sixty Thouſand Piſtoles, it will require a conſummate Skill in Ways and Means to raiſe ſuch a Sum in that Iſland.

The Parliament have carried their Point; their Allegations being of ſuch Weight, that his Majeſty has permitted the regiſtering his Declaration with their Reſtrictions and Modifications.

An Edict is come out, allowing the Importation of Butter from Great-Britain and Ireland, upon paying Duty.

LONDON, Auguſt 29.

There is ſaid to be a Scheme on Foot for redreſſing the Grievances complain'd of from ſending Felons over into the Plantations, and at the ſame time, for rendering them more ſerviceable to the Community; but in what Manner is not as yet publickly known.

According to private Letters from Leghorn, the King of the Two Sicilies has abſolutely rejected the Propoſition made of entring into a Treaty with the States of Barbary; upon a Suppoſition, that the Infidels are leſs dangerous as Enemies than as Friends. It is alſo aſſerted, that the League which has been ſo long the Subject of Converſation, will ſpeedily be made publick; and that from thence it will appear, the Maritime States of Italy are far from being incapable of protecting their Commerce by a Naval Force.

They write from the Hague, that the Departure of the French Miniſter, in Conſequence of an Expreſs receiv'd from his Court, occaſion'd a Variety of Conjectures; the rather, becauſe it is reported, that an Expreſs paſſed lately through Bruſſels from Stockholm to Verſailles with Diſpatches of great Importance; and a Report prevails, that Marſhal Lowendahl has receiv'd Directions to make a Tour to the Court of Denmark before he returns to Paris.

The Rev. Mr. Whitefield is embark'd for Georgia.

The King of Denmark being reſolv'd to maintain his Right of Sovereignty in Davis's Streights, and let none trade there beſides his own Subjects, two foreign Veſſels, the one commanded by Nanning Corneliſe, and the other by C. Ganſſe, which went thither on a trading Errand, have been ſeiz'd by his Daniſh Majeſty's Guard Ships.---The four Daniſh Ships which ſail'd from Copenhagen ſome Time ago on a ſecret Expedition, are arriv'd at Saffia, on the Coaſt of Africa, where they are to eſtabliſh a Fort and Factory.

It is pretended that the Diſſatisfaction of France with the Genoeſe, does not ariſe from the pretended Inſults of the Officers of her Troops in Corſica, but from the Republick's refuſing to yield up that Kingdom upon the propoſed Conditions.

Auguſt 30. Private Letters by the laſt Mail from Holland adviſe, that the French Ambaſſador at the Hague was ſuddenly call'd home from thence, without making any publick Entry, as was expected; which occaſion'd much Speculation.

Edinburgh, Auguſt 15. They write from Cromarty, that there is a very fine Proſpect of the Herring Fiſhery upon that Coaſt, large Quantities having been already caught.

They write from Aberdeen, that laſt Week a venerable well meaning Couple, in the Pariſh of Bellie, in Bamffſhire, warm'd with a feeble Ray of their declining Sun, in ſpite of Old Age and its Attendants, boldly ventur'd on lawful Wedlock; the Man is 90, and the Woman 70. The ſame Week the Contagion ſpread to the Neighbourhood, where a Man and a Woman, each aged 89, follow'd this laudable Example.

Province of New-Hampſhire, Portſmouth, October 25, 1751.

At the Superiour Court of Judicature now ſitting at Portſmouth, in and for the Province of New-Hampſhire, one Samuel Dunſten, has been tried for uttering counterfeit Bills of publick Credit on ſaid Province, and acquitted by the Jury; ſince which Trial a falſe Plate of a Twenty Shilling Bill, and one of a Two and Six Penny Bill of ſaid Province have been found, and in the Preſence of the Judges of ſaid Court been defaced.

BOSTON, October 28.

A few Days ago, two young Women (Siſters) belonging to Shrewſbury, on their Way to Lancaſter, miſſing the Road (as is ſuppoſed) attempting to paſs over a ſmall Water above a Mill-Dam, were both unfortunately drowned.

Yeſterday Capt. Partridge arrived here in about 8 Weeks from London, as did a Ship from Holland with 200 German Settlers.

Extract of a Letter from Stockbridge, dated September 25, 1751.

Some of the Mohawks are come this Day to Stockbridge from their own Country, and bring an Account of their Brethren at home, that they continue in a Diſpoſition and Deſign to bring their Children hither to be inſtructed.---A Number of the far Nations are juſt now come to treat with the Five Nations, with a very great Belt of Wampum, which is a Sign of great and important Buſineſs: And they ſay the Army that lately went to extirpate the Nation of the Toowechtoowees, are returned without Succeſs; their Deſign being diſcovered by that Nation before they came: And that the Army in their Return ſtop'd at a Place a little above Oſwego, and had ſent to the Chiefs of all the Five Nations to come to 'em; and particularly, That the Governor or General of the Army, had ſent very earneſtly for Hendrick to come, but that he utterly refuſed, and declared that none of his Tribe ſhould ſtir. And, if the Account theſe Men give be true, the other Nations decline this propoſed Interview with the French General, and ſay, If he has any Buſineſs with them, he muſt come to them. Theſe Men alſo give an Account, that the Small-Pox, and Fever and Flux rage exceedingly at this Day among the Five Nations, through the greater Part of their Countries, and prove very mortal; and that great Multitudes are ſwept off: That the Small-Pox was brought among them from the Country of the Flat Heads, by ſome that went thither to War: That the Tribe of the Caunechyenkees, or proper Mohawks, had hitherto eſcaped.---

NEW-YORK, November 4.

Friday laſt, the Negroe Man mentioned in our laſt, was executed here, according to Sentence.

Capt. Amory ſail'd from the Downes in Company with Capt. Corne, and Capt. Bryant was to ſail in a few Days afterwards; ſo that they may be both daily expected.

Laſt Saturday Night a poor old Woman in Petticoat-Lane, well known in this City by the Name of Nanny Gardner, fell into the Fire, and was burnt to Death: Her Huſband was preſent, and endeavoured to help her, but being very feeble, was not able; tho' he burnt thro' one of his Shoes and Stockings to his Leg, in ſuch a Manner, as had not ſome Aſſiſtance come, he would ſoon have periſh'd alſo.

PHILADELPHIA, November 7.

Thurſday laſt, after a long Indiſpoſition, died the honourable JAMES LOGAN, Eſq; in the 77th Year of his Age; and on Saturday his Remains were decently interr'd in the Friends Burying Ground, in this City, the Funeral being reſpectfully attended by the principal Gentlemen and Inhabitants of Philadelphia and the neighbouring Country. His Life was for the moſt Part a Life of Buſineſs, tho' he had always been paſſionately fond of Study: He had borne the ſeveral Offices of Provincial Secretary, Commiſſioner of Property, Chief Judge of the Supreme Court, and for near two Years govern'd the Province as Preſident of the Council, in all which publick Stations, as well as in private Life, he behav'd with unblemiſh'd Integrity: But ſome Years before his Death he retir'd from publick Affairs to Stenton, his Country Seat, where he enjoy'd among his Books that Leiſure which Men of Letters ſo earneſtly deſire. He was thoroughly verſed both in ancient and modern Learning, acquainted with the Oriental Tongues, a Maſter of the Greek and Latin, French and Italian Languages, deeply ſkilled in the Mathematical Sciences, and in Natural and Moral Philoſophy, as ſeveral Pieces of his Writing witneſs, which have been repeatedly printed in divers Parts of Europe, and are highly eſteemed by the Learned. But the moſt noble Monument of his Wiſdom, Publick Spirit, Benevolence, and affectionate Regard to the People of Pennſylvania, is his LIBRARY; which he has been collecting theſe 50 Years paſt, with the greateſt Care and Judgment, intending it a Benefaction to the Publick for the Increaſe of Knowledge, and for the common Uſe and Benefit of all Lovers of Learning. It contains the beſt Editions of the beſt Books in various Languages, Arts and Sciences, and is without Doubt the largeſt, and by far the moſt valuable Collection of the Kind in this Part of the World, and will convey the Name of LOGAN thro' Ages, with Honour, to the lateſt Poſterity.

And on Wednesday morning a stage waggon, with a good carning, kept by Fretwell Wright, at the Blue Anchor, in Burlington, and John Predmore, at Cramberry, and James Wilson, at Amboy Ferry; will proceed to Obadiah Ayrs's, Inn-keeper at Amboy Ferry; where good entertainment for man and horse is, and will be kept. And on Thursday a stage passage-boat, with a fine commodious cabbin, fitted with a tea-table, and sundry other conveniencies, kept by Matthias Iselstine, will be ready to receive the passengers or goods, and proceed directly to New-York, and give their attendance at Whitehall Battery. If Passengers are ready at the places on stage days, 'tis believ'd they will go sooner from Philadelphia to New-York, by 24 or 30 hours, than by any other way that has been made use of by stage, the boat from Philadelphia to Burlington seldom being above four hours on her passage, and often but two or three hours. All persons on or near the road, that have business, may have it done with due care and attendance. The price of passengers or goods, that shall come to Burlington, will be no more per mile than from Bordentown. On Sundays or Mondays in any week, passengers trading up and down the river, or any other manner, whose waggon hire shall amount to Sixteen Shillings, or upwards, shall, upon the first notice, have a waggon, and be transported to the stage boat, which will be ready to receive them at the landing, and is the most handy and convenient of any thereabouts, there being a good wharff to step into the boat. The boat, for the first time, will begin to attend at the Crooked Billet on Tuesday, the 13th day of August, 1751, and the waggon will proceed the day following. Further, if the ice, or any thing else, should at any time prevent the passage boat from going from Burlington to Philadelphia, the stage waggon will, if requir'd, proceed from Burlington to Cooper's Ferry. FRETWELL WRIGHT, JOHN PREDMORE, JAMES WILSON, PATRICK COWAN.
